THE MANAGER

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Good evening and welcome to this evening's game against Huddersfield Town.

It's been a while since we were last in action here at the Reebok and we have been on a good little run of form of late. It's important we continue that over this busy period of fixtures.

We must look to carry over our recent good form to the Reebok and follow on from our deserved victory last time out here against Millwall, which in itself feels like a long time ago.

At the weekend against Middlesbrough I felt we were unfortunate not come away with nothing from the game. We had enough possession and created a number of goal-scoring opportunities, but in the end we came away with nothing. It's was disappointing and we now move on.

Prior to that, at Watford our game-plan to nullify their style of play worked exceptionally well and we were also able to enjoy our fair share of possession from which we caused them some problems. That eventually led to us taking the lead.

In spite of a short revival in the second half, Watford rarely threatened our goal.

This evening we would like to welcome Mark Robins, the players, staff, supporters and officials of Huddersfield Town.

We know that this Huddersfield team will be a difficult nut to crack, however momentum is a key factor in modern day football. We have that at the moment and we need to really take advantage of our current situation.

The depth of our squad for this heavy programme of games in December is heartening. On that note we would like to extend a warm welcome to Joe Mason, who has joined us on loan from Cardiff City.

He has been a target of mine for some time now. He nearly joined us two or three weeks ago and we we're delighted to get the deal over the line this time round.

Joe can play as an advanced or a deep-lying striker and we feel sure he will be a good addition to our squad.

He adds to our already impressive competition for places. It is important at this particular stage of the season.

At this moment in time all of the lads are working very hard for one another. We've got a good spirit around the place and that's not only reflected in the players that are playing regularly, but those who aren't getting as much game time as they would like.

The attitude of the players in the entire squad around the training ground has been great.

Hopefully we can get back on track, bounce back and continue our progress up the league this evening.

Enjoy the game.

ZAT KNIGHT

Good evening and welcome to the Reebok Stadium for tonight's game against Huddersfield Town.

It was frustrating that our unbeaten record in the league came to an end at the weekend at Middlesbrough.

I personally thought that we did enough to get something out of the game. It was a shame the way we gave away a penalty but for long spells I didn't think we looked troubled against Middlesbrough.

Jermaine Beckford had a couple of opportunities in the second half and he was unfortunate with his penalty, but he will pick himself up and go again this evening against Huddersfield Town.

We are expecting a fight tonight against a very strong Huddersfield side. They beat the league leaders Burnley at home at the weekend and they are currently on a good run of form.

We are certain it will be a tough match but Huddersfield will also be wary of us and know that we have lost just once in the last nine league games.

We need everybody behind us tonight. It is important that we dust ourselves down from the disappointment at the weekend and go into the next two games at the Reebok Stadium with the aim of picking up maximum points.

The Christmas period is coming up and we know if we can string a good run of results together we will quickly climb the table.

However, nobody is guaranteed to win football matches in the Championship and that was proven at the weekend with Yeovil winning at Watford and Doncaster beating Queens Park Rangers at home.

We want to use tonight as a platform to start another unbeaten run in the league.

It has taken time for us to get our season going and I would like to thank the fans for staying firmly behind the team.

I would also like to take this opportunity to welcome Joe Mason to the team. Joe has trained well and it was good to see him get the final few minutes last weekend.

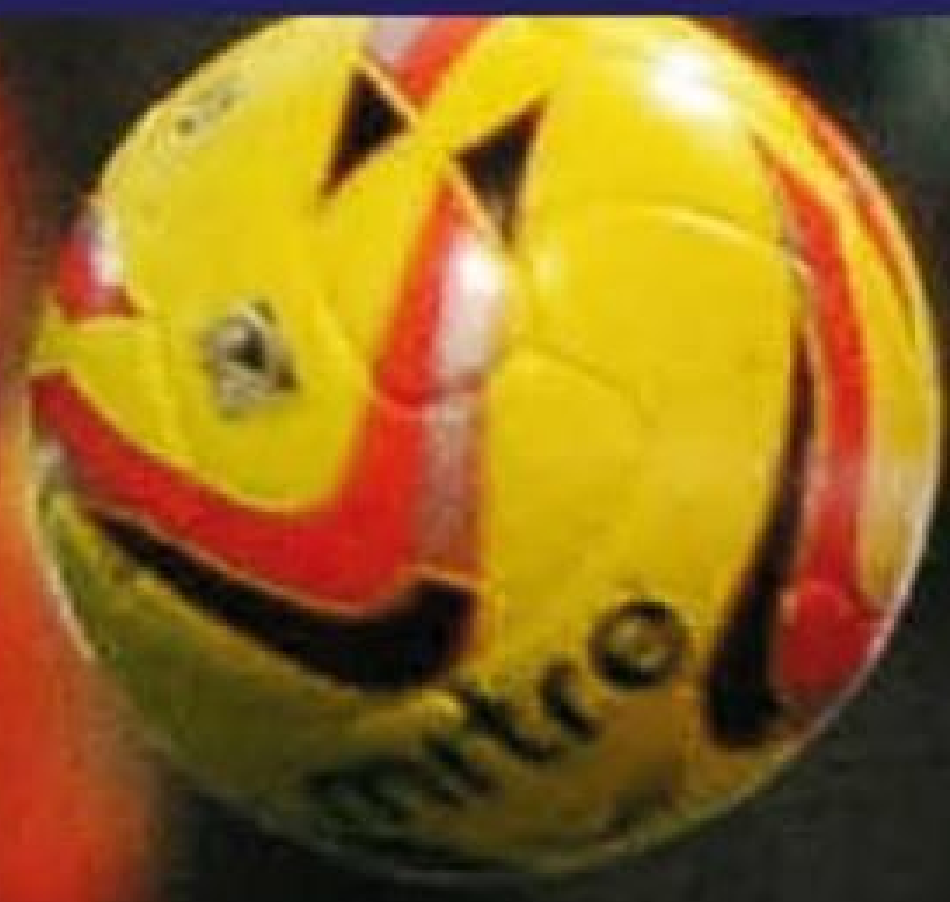

He is a great lad and I am sure he will have an important role to play in the upcoming games.

It does seem a while since we last played at the Reebok but all the lads are looking forward to the game and we are focused on winning.

Thanks for your support.

Striker Jermaine Beckford believes the hard graft and determination he showed in the early stages of his career have made him become the player he is today.

JERMAINE BECKFORD

ONE ON ONE

WITH JERMAINE BECKFORD

Having been employed as a windscreen fitter in the early years of his career, Jermaine Beckford is a player who is under no illusions as to the value of hard work.

One of the most recognisable characters in the modern game, the London-born striker swapped Leicester for Bolton this summer in a move which took over two months to complete from start to finish.

Now well and truly settled into life at the Reebok Stadium with six goals to his name in all competitions, the 29-year-old, who turns 30 next week, admitted that he couldn't be happier at present, both on and off the field.

"I was so relieved when the move got confirmed – it was a weight off my shoulders because I was able to move back up north as well and have more time to spend with my young family," he said.

"The opportunity to work with the manager was great because we had such a good understanding and relationship when he came to Leeds on loan a few seasons ago.

"Every time I'd spoken to him on the phone during that period, he was constantly reassuring me that it would get sorted, he told me not to panic and when I arrived he told me to relax and enjoy my football.

"It's been well worth the wait though, as my goals have been coming and hopefully that will continue for a long time."

Having spent his childhood dreaming of becoming a professional footballer, Beckford originally began his affiliation with the game for his local side Greenford Town in West London as a nine year-old, with the striker's father having had a huge influence on his early career.

"When I was a kid, as far back as I can remember my dad used to take myself and my younger brother up to the local parks and we used to just kick footballs together.

"I must have been about three or four – my dad just put a ball at my feet and told me to not pick it up!

"My favourite thing to do was to pick it up, so he thought I was going to be a goalkeeper. That's where it all started really and I've loved every second since.

Despite having shown such promise on the football pitch from a young age, the centre forward confessed that his career could have taken a very different direction.

"I loved my football and I did enjoy basketball too, but then I broke my finger and it put me off a bit.

"I could have had a very different life though – I could have been in America as one of the shorter players."

His determination to make it as a footballer however shone through, with Beckford being asked to join Chelsea's youth set-up when he was just 14.

A dream come true for the Londoner, his progression at Stamford Bridge was to be thwarted with an Achilles injury which ultimately led to him being released shortly after.

Frustrated at the failure to push up through the Blues' ranks however, Beckford explained that it was merely part and parcel of his rise to the top.

"Obviously it was disappointing for myself to not be a part of it, but I was in the same team as Carlton Cole who has gone on to do very well for himself, so to see somebody that I knew and had played with doing very well was fantastic."

Having been left without a club, Beckford turned to another local side in the form of Wealdstone FC where he went on to spend three years, developing a reputation for his lethal ability in front of goal.

With Wealdstone only being a semi-professional outfit, the teenager also had a number of part-time jobs in order to secure an sustainable income – one of which was as a windscreen fitter for the RAC.

Now a world away from his life back then, Beckford admitted that his experiences during his time in non-league football were something that will never leave him and have merely helped him to develop both professionally and personally.

The club's top goal scorer continued: "I spent about two years with the RAC and it was amazing because I met some truly incredible people during my time there, but at the same time I was still enjoying life and doing what I loved to do which was playing football."

Having experienced a difficult start in his bid to make it to the big time, Beckford's exploits with Wealdstone ultimately led to a plethora of league dubs fighting it out for his signature in the summer of 2006.

Deals with Yeovil, Crystal Palace and Watford failed to materialise, but the striker's hard work was set to pay off with the arrival of Leeds United onto the scene – a move which Beckford needed no persuasion to make.

"I was on the verge of signing for a few teams, and then Leeds came in who are a huge club.

"With all their history and the type of players that were there at the time, I just thought it was a clean break from London and in doing so I would be able to focus 100% on my football and it turned out to be a very good move for me."

A transfer which would then yield arguably the finest years of his career so far, his move to Elland Road was one which Beckford describes as a culture shock, but one that made him the player he is today.

"I had a great time at Leeds, so much that I consider it my second home now - I had so many amazing experiences there and I met so many fantastic people that have been positive influences on my life.

"They helped me to achieve the goals that I have achieved, for example, in the game against Manchester United in the FA Cup, we were massive underdogs and went on to win with me scoring the winner. It was just incredible."

Following a successful four year spell in Yorkshire which saw him average over a goal every two games, it wasn't long before the top flight came calling in the shape of Everton in the summer of 2010.

A moment which Beckford himself had dreamt of since childhood, the Jamaican international conceded that it was a move that he just couldn't turn down.

"I had a chat with David Moyes and he told me that I was the kind of guy he was looking for, somebody that had a natural finishing ability and someone who just went out and enjoyed their football.

"I learnt a lot from him and Steve Round – both of them were amazing to be around. It was a great time and I made some great friends as well as learning a lot off the boys who were international footballers.

"In this game you just need to grab any knowledge that you can and soak up the experiences you have to make you a better player."

Although the goals didn't flow as freely as they had at his previous clubs during his spell at Goodison Park, Wanderers fans will certainly remember his first league strike for the Toffees – an injury time equaliser in a 1-1 draw back in November 2010, and one which he is still berated for by his new teammates.

"I'm always reminded of that goal by Chungy," he said. "He keeps coming up to me and giving me some stick for it, but he's a great guy and I take it on the chin."

After enjoying a fairly successful stint on Merseyside, Beckford was on the move yet again just a year into his deal as the club accepted a bid from Leicester City for the striker's services.

His two years in the Midlands failed to live up expectation however, with the forward being loaned out to today's opponents Huddersfield Town last season where he formed a lethal partnership with James Vaughan.

"I had a great time at Huddersfield," he enthused. "I did get quite a few injuries, but the time that I did play I had great fun."

"Unfortunately me and James were injured for substantial parts of the season which was difficult, but I enjoyed my time there."

"They've got a lot of talented players there and some very funny guys who I'll always have time for – I think they'll do well this season."

His impressive form for Mark Robins' men was to prove to be the catalyst for his recent move to BL6, with manager Dougie Freedman battling off a number of other clubs to secure the striker's services.

A move which Beckford had no qualms about making and one that he has certainly vindicated with his form in front of goal so far, he admitted that he is relishing what the rest of the season holds both for him and the team.

"It was amazing when I arrived – I remember watching the first training session and there was a possession game going on.

"I was standing on the sidelines and it looked like somebody was playing on practice mode on the computer because the accuracy, speed and tempo was just fantastic – I'm so happy and so excited to be a part of because it's a constant test.

"You always worry when you first come to a club, but as soon as you get involved it becomes second nature and you develop every day in terms of your technique and fitness.

"I want to play my part in helping this club get back to where it deserves to be."

JOE MASON

IT WAS AN EASY DECISION TO JOIN

Joe Mason admitted his delight at the completion of his loan deal with the club and revealed that the decision to make the move to BL6 was a simple one.

The striker officially joined Wanderers on Wednesday from Premier League newcomers Cardiff City last week with the youngster's deal set to run until January 5.

Having started out his career with his hometown club of Plymouth Argyle, Mason made the transition up through the youth ranks at Home Park with ease before earning his first professional contract in 2009.

Another two years with the Pilgrims followed, with Cardiff swooping to secure the young striker's signature in the summer of 2011 following a number of impressive performances in a Plymouth shirt.

His move to the Welsh capital was to prove to be a pivotal one, with Mason notching 12 goals in his inaugural season in Wales including one against Liverpool in the 2012 Capital One Cup Final – a game which also featured fellow loan man Kevin McNaughton in the Cardiff starting line-up.

A highly rated prospect having notched six goals during the Bluebirds' promotion winning campaign last year, Mason spoke exclusively to the club following confirmation of the move.

"I'm really happy," he said. "It took a while coming, but sometimes you've got to wait for things like this. I am delighted to be here finally.

"I can't wait to get started – the boys have been on a really good run of late as well so that always helps when you're coming into a new group, and the lads have been really good to me as well so that's always nice.

"The manager was trying to sign me for quite a while which is always nice to know and Bolton are a big club, especially in this division, so it was a really easy decision for me."

Boasting a plethora of Championship experience after spending the past two years plying his trade in the second tier of English football, the Plymouth-born forward hopes that his familiarity with the league itself can benefit his new team during his stay at the Reebok Stadium.

"I've had quite a few seasons in this division now but I'm still quite young myself.

"I have got quite good experience of the Championship and I know a few things in terms of getting out of it too, so hopefully I can put that into my time here at Bolton." With the 22 year-old set to pit his wits against the likes of Jermaine Beckford and David Ngog for a place in the Whites' line-up, Mason confessed that he is relishing the opportunity to do so.

"They're two very established players," he said. "They've both played in the Premier League and did quite well and obviously at Bolton they're doing well again, so I can't wait to play with those sort of players.

"It definitely helps as well that the manager was a striker when he played. We've had quite a few conversations which have helped and it's great that I can have one-on-one chats with him about my play in and around the box."

He added: "I've already played at the Reebok Stadium with Cardiff last year – Bolton won that day, but it was an amazing stadium to play at and I can't wait to do it again – hopefully that will be tonight!"

DEVELOPMENT SQUAD

Stoke City 2-6 Wanderers

Wanderers' Under 21s recorded an emphatic 6-2 victory over Stoke City at the Weaver Stadium on Monday evening.

A strike from Conor Wilkinson, a brace from Tom Youngs and an Oscar Threlkeld goal had seen the Whites take a four goal advantage into the break, but the Potters reduced the deficit shortly after the restart through Karim Rossi.

Not to be deterred however, Bolton hit back through Wilkinson who completed his hat trick and while Charlie Ward snatched another consolation for Stoke late on, it was ultimately in vain as Wanderers ran out comfortable winners.

Stoke enjoyed a bright start to proceedings, with James Alabi firing just wide inside the first minute of the clash after good work from Jermaine Pennant. Having found themselves under early pressure however, both Youngs and Zach Clough spurned glorious opportunities to hand Bolton the lead.

No sooner had they wasted two chances however, Youngs played a pinpoint ball into the path of Wilkinson in the 12th minute who slotted home past the advancing Bachmann in the Stoke goal.

After finding themselves in front the belief amongst the Whites was clear to see, with Wilkinson turning provider just five minutes later as he supplied Youngs with a beautifully crafted ball, with the striker doubling Wanderers' advantage with a perfectly executed lob over the keeper.

The Potters looked to be at sixes and sevens with Bolton's strike force running riot inside the opening quarter of the game, and it wasn't long before it got worse for the hosts as Threlkeld volleyed home from Iliev's flick on to make it three.

A fourth goal then looked to be imminent, and it was to fall to Youngs who fired home from a matter of yards out after good work from Clough with just five minutes of the half to go to ensure that Wanderers entered the break with a seemingly unassailable lead.

As the second period got underway, Stoke appeared to have more vigour about their play and their sprightly start was rewarded with 52 minutes on the clock as Rossi unleashed a scorching shot past Lee-Barrett from a tight angle to reduce to deficit.

Stoke introduced striker Derice Richards into the fold on the hour mark in a bid to stage what seemed an unlikely comeback, but it was to be in vain as Wilkinson snatched his second of the game, slotting the ball into the bottom corner of the net after connecting with Iliev's flick on.

With Wanderers well and truly back in the driving seat, Wilkinson completed his hat trick just two minutes later, following up with a simple tap in after Clough's shot was parried out by Bachmann.

Shortly after however, the Potters snatched another goal back through Ward who powered the ball through a crowded penalty area and into the bottom corner of the net.

As the clock ran down, Pennant tested Lee-Barrett from close range and Ben Heneghan saw his header cleared off the line by Luke Woodland in a late flurry of attacks by the Whites but their efforts were to prove futile as Bolton ran out handsome winners.

SUNDERLAND 7-0 WANDERERS

An inexperienced Wanderers U18 side suffered a 7-0 reverse away at Sunderland last weekend.

Entering the clash on the back of a hard earned point against Stoke City the previous Saturday, the club's young guns took to the field full of confidence as they went in search of their first victory of the season.

Boasting seven players from the academy's Under 16 set-up in the match day squad, the Whites' optimism was dampened almost immediately as they conceded a penalty kick just five minutes after kick off which Martin Smith duly converted.

Having found themselves behind, the team proceeded to concede another four goals inside the opening 45 minutes with Lynden Gooch, Tom Beadling, Rees Greenwood and Andrew Nelson getting their names on the score sheet to ensure that the hosts went into the break with a seemingly unassailable 5-0 lead.

Despite a more determined performance by Bolton in front of goal in the second half, the Black Cats went onto add another two strikes to their tally through Gooch and Smith to run out handsome winners. Speaking following the final whistle, coach David Lee admitted his disappointment at the score line of the game but is adamant that it is ultimately a result that will stand his youngsters in good stead for the rest of the season.

"We had a lot of younger players involved today including William Jaaskelainen and Alex Honeyball who featured against Stoke last weekend - although this will be a tough result to take for them, they need to look at it as a great learning curve in the long run. "We didn't help ourselves by conceding the penalty so early on, and then it was a number of individual mistakes which cost us dearly.

"The players weren't clinical enough in front of goal either - with the few opportunities that we had, we failed to test their goalkeeper which is frustrating."

He added: "We're disappointed, but we can't dwell on this game. We've had some great performances this season which haven't got the results that they've deserved, so we just need to pick ourselves up and bounce back."

Bolton: Jaaskelainen, Greenaugh, Honeyball, Kennedy (Henry), Ball, Bailey, Newby, Griffiths, Hinchliffe, Torres, Thomas (Nelson)

SO FAR THIS SEASON...

After securing their Championship status on the last day of the season after James Vaughan's late equaliser earned the Terriers a draw against relegation rivals Barnsley, Huddersfield Town are eager to avoid second-season syndrome heading into the 2013/14 campaign.

And for manager Mark Robins it has been a case of so far, so good for the Yorkshire club, with his side currently sitting comfortably in mid-table in what is his first full season in charge.

An opening day defeat against Nottingham Forest was quickly forgotten as Huddersfield earned an impressive point against early title favourites Queens Park Rangers in their first home game of the season, with Vaughan opening his account for the year against the division's big spenders.

A first win of the season followed away at Millwall, with Vaughan on target once again, before the former Norwich City man took his tally to five goals in three games with a hatrick against newly-promoted Bournemouth, as Huddersfield secured a comfortable 5-1 victory.

Despite Vaughan's goalscoring spree continuing, Huddersfield would lose their next match against Barnsley before drawing with Doncaster Rovers.

The Terriers returned to winning ways against Charlton Athletic, but their joy was to be short-lived as they would have to wait over a month for their next league triumph.

Successive draws against Blackburn, Blackpool and Middlesbrough followed, but worse was to follow as back-to-back defeats against promotion-chasing Watford and Leicester City extended Huddersfield's winless run to five games. To make matters worse, the in-form Vaughan saw red in the latter tie, ensuring the forward would sit out his side's next three matches.

Jon Stead replaced the absent 25-year-old for the West Yorkshire Derby against Leeds United the following week and quickly stepped up to the plate with his first goal of the season, as Huddersfield secured a morale-boosting 3-2 victory against their local rivals.

After defeats against Wigan Athletic and Birmingham City, Robins switched to a 3-5-2 formation for his side's trip to Sheffield Wednesday, welcoming Vaughan back in attack.

Since his return, Huddersfield have managed to get back to winning ways with back to back wins, starting by claiming the Yorkshire bragging rights with victory over Sheffield Wednesday at Hillsborough.

At the weekend, the Terriers again claimed three points but this time on home soil against promotion chasing Burnley with Vaughan scoring from the penalty spot in a 2-1 victory.

PATERSON VAUGHAN

STARMAN

When Jordan Rhodes left the club early last season, Huddersfield Town were in desperate need of a goalscorer to replace the Scottish international.

Thankfully for the Terriers, in the shape of James Vaughan, a goalscorer is exactly what they got.

Starting his career at Everton, Vaughan became the Premier League's youngest ever goalscorer when he scored on his debut for the Toffees against Crystal Palace back in April 2005, aged just 16.

Despite staying at Goodison Park until 2011, Vaughan's time on Merseyside was often plighted by injury as he failed to establish himself in Everton's first team set-up, despite his early potential.

Vaughan made 47 league appearances during his time at Everton, with eight of those starts, as he often found himself out on loan towards the end of his Blues career.

The forward first joined Derby County temporarily in September 2009, but was recalled after just two games due to injury. Later in the same season he would spend time at Leicester City, scoring one goal in eight appearances for the Foxes.

Ahead of the 2010/11 season, Vaughan joined Crystal Palace on loan, and immediately endeared himself to supporters by scoring a hatrick on his home debut for the club.

After returning to Everton halfway through the season, and appearing in the Merseyside Derby, Vaughan re-joined Palace on loan in January after a similar move to Scottish giants Celtic fell through. He finished the season with nine goals from 30 games during his two loan spells in South London.

In May 2011 Vaughan signed for newly-promoted Premier League side Norwich City, but injuries would once again restrict his progress, as the forward made just five league appearances during his time in Norfolk.

Vaughan joined Huddersfield Town on a season-long loan in August 2012. He would finish the season as the Terriers' leading goalscorer with 14 goals, including a hatrick against Bristol City and an equalising goal in the club's 2-2 draw against Barnsley on the final day of the season to secure Town's Championship status.

Vaughan's form not only earned the striker a permanent move to Huddersfield, but also the club's Player of the Year award for the 2012/13 season.

Having finally settled and put his injury problems of the past behind him, Vaughan has started the 2013/14 season in fine form and will be looking to put the Bolton backline to test tonight.

THE BOSS

Having starred for Manchester United as a player during the early years of the Sir Alex Ferguson era, Mark Robins knows what it takes to achieve success.

Now Huddersfield Town manager, the former striker is looking to emulate his old mentor by having a successful career in the dugout.

Robins started his career with United in 1986 and scored two of the most important goals during Ferguson's early years at the club.

The first came in the FA Cup third round back in 1990 against Nottingham Forest, with it being widely reported that Ferguson would leave the Red Devils if they failed to win. Instead, Robins came off the bench to score the winning goal.

He would later go on to score in the club's semi-final win over Oldham Athletic, as Manchester United went on to win the first of many trophies during the Ferguson era.

Robins left Old Trafford to join Norwich City in 1992, helping the Canaries qualify for the UEFA Cup in his first year at the club, before starring in arguably one of the Canaries's finest ever hours the following year, as they famously defeated German giants Bayern Munich at the Olympiastadion.

He later enjoyed spells on both home soil and abroad, before embarking on his first steps into management with former club Rotherham United.

During his two years with the Millers, Robins managed to turn the previous relegation candidates into serious promotion challengers, only to narrowly miss out on moving up a division in both of his full seasons at the club.

The lure of a higher division proved too much in September 2009, when Robins left Rotherham to join Barnsley, but his time at Oakwell didn't go to plan and the 43 year-old quit the role at the end of the 2010/11 season.

Robins returned to management with League One Coventry City in September 2012, and quickly became a fan favourite, having catapulted the Sky Blues up the league table from relegation battlers to true Play-Off contenders in just a few short months.

It was this form that saw current club Huddersfield Town come calling however, as he left Coventry after just five months to take up the reigns at the newly promoted Championship side.

After guiding the Terriers to Championship survival on the last day of last season, Robins is well on his way to avoiding a similar threat this year, with Huddersfield currently finding themselves comfortably in mid-table.

LOOKING BACK

Bolton and Huddersfield enjoyed rather contrasting campaigns during the 2000/2001 season at either end of the Division One table.

Despite this, there proved to be very little between the two sides on the pitch with both clashes proving to be pulsating affairs, full of goals and plenty of drama.

Having embarked on a four game unbeaten run, Bolton were eager to build on their impressive start to the season as the sides faced off at the Galpharm Stadium at the start of September, while Huddersfield were seeking a first home league win.

After a goalless first half, Huddersfield took the lead just two minutes after the interval when striker Martin Smith took advantage of a poor clearance from Bolton keeper Jussi Jaaskelainen to loop the ball back over the Finn's head into the empty net.

Sadly for Huddersfield, Bolton pegged them back almost immediately courtesy of Dean Holdsworth, as the forward powered a near-post header past the hapless Nico Vaesen just four minutes after his side had fallen behind.

Eager not to settle for a point, Bolton manager Sam Allardyce threw on striker Michael Ricketts shortly afterwards, in what proved to be the defining moment of the game.

Collecting Gareth Farrelly's pass in the area on 70 minutes, the youngster shrugged a challenge before lobbing Vaesen to give his side the lead.

Despite John Dyson soon levelling the scores once more, Bolton were not to be denied as Ricketts pounced on Ian Marshall's knock down to secure his side a 3-2 win.

Bolton would extend their unbeaten run to eight games before finally losing to Fulham, while Huddersfield would have to wait until December to claim just their second win of the season, their poor form costing manager and now Hull City boss Steve Bruce his job in mid-October.

The next time the two sides met came at the Reebok Stadium in February, with Huddersfield now managed by former Manchester United player Lou Macari. After a strong festive period, the Terriers' situation was no longer quite so perilous, while Bolton were continuing to challenge for automatic promotion alongside Fulham and Blackburn Rovers.

Against the run of play Bolton found themselves two goals down inside 25 minutes, as first Smith volleyed in from close range before Kevin Gallen rounded keeper Steve Banks to slot home from an acute angle.

Having dominated the game, Bolton's pressure finally paid off on the hour mark as skipper Gudni Bergsson headed home from point-blank range. However, it could have been game over just five minutes later as Huddersfield were awarded a controversial penalty, only for keeper Banks to tip Craig Armstrong's fierce spot-kick over the bar.

Bolton pressed forward, desperate for an equaliser, and with the game entering its dying embers, they finally got their reward. Having been awarded a free-kick 25 yards out in the 93rd minute, Per Frandsen stepped up to curl an unstoppable strike past Vaesen into the top corner, earning his side a share of the spoils in the process.

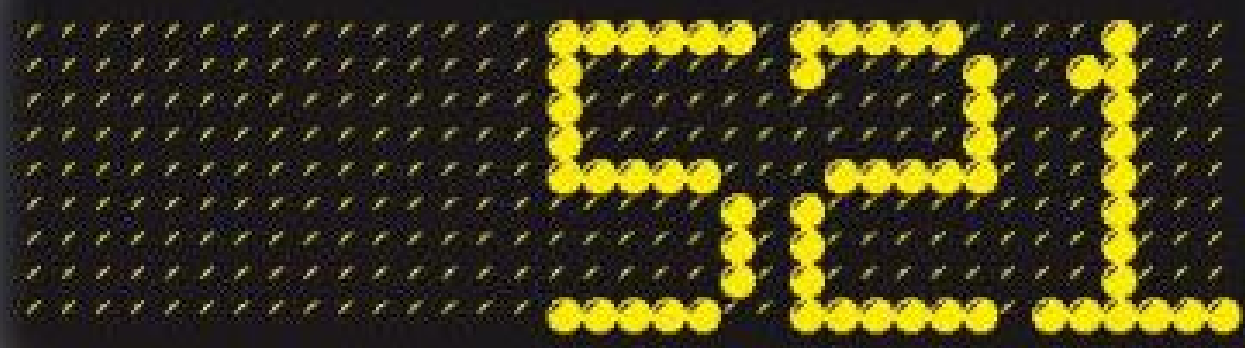

After being such close opponents on the field, the two sides found themselves separated by two divisions the following year.

While the draw proved to be the start of a slight blip for Bolton as they won just two of their next 10 matches, ruling them out of the automatic promotion chase, they won promotion to the Premier League via the Play-Offs.

Huddersfield meanwhile were relegated to Division Two, finishing just one point behind 21st place Crystal Palace.

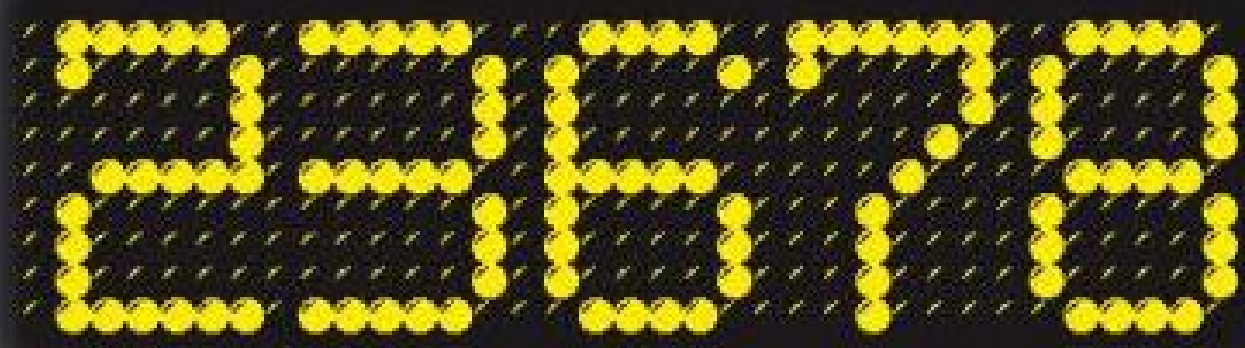

Having looked safe at the start of April, an end of season blip left Macari to wonder what could have been had it not been for a 93rd minute Per Frandsen free-kick.

THE BIG PICTURE

16/10/1999 - 3.45PM

Jamaican international Ricardo Gardner netted his fifth goal of the season for the Whites as they ran out 1-0 winners against today's opponents Huddersfield Town at the Reebok Stadium 14 years ago.

Gardner, aged 21 at the time, calmly slotted the ball beyond the outstretched arm of Huddersfield's Belgian goalkeeper Nico Vaesen in the 45th minute to seal all three points for Sam Allardyce's promotion chasers.

In the return fixture at the Galpharm Stadium finished 3-0 to Bolton Wanderers courtesy of a Bo Hansen brace and a 58th minute goal from Mike Whitlow.

BECKFORD LEADS THE WAY

Wanderers leading goal scorer Jermaine Beckford visited students from the Club's education arm after training on Monday to take part in a question and answer session as well as talking to them about the importance of hard work and dedication.

Jermaine met with the 50 strong group to pass on his advice about the importance of self-belief and always working hard to achieve your full potential before taking part in a light-hearted Q&A session where he revealed all about the best players he has played with and again, his hopes for the season and the best player in the Bolton squad at FIFA!

After the session Jermaine spent time signing autographs and posing for photographs with the group before sharing his sentiments:

"I really enjoyed meeting this group today – as a professional footballer hopefully I can do my bit to inspire and educate these young adults and show them that there is a lot more to being a professional footballer than just turning up on a Saturday. A lot of people think it happens overnight and it's not like that at all – it's a result of hard-work, determination and dedication. As long as you are enjoying your life and being the best person that you can be then nobody can take that away from you.

"I've got younger brothers who are similar ages to the boys here and I'll often chat to them and try and pass on advice and it was the same today. From just speaking to a few of the group one-on-one afterwards, I can tell that some of them have really taken in what I said and hopefully I have been able to have an impact on their futures in a positive way."

The group of young adults, aged between 16-18 years old, are all part of Bolton Wanderers Institute of Sport education programme which focuses on personal and academic progression as well as elite football coaching and helps to prepare students for a range of progression routes into university or employment.

INTHECOMMUNITY

WANDERERS PAIR RECOGNISE LOCAL ACHIEVEMENTS

Andre Moritz and Chung-Yong Lee attended the Voice 4 U Awards at Bolton Town Hall on Monday evening to present certificates of success to children who have worked with the Bolton Wanderers Community Trust Positive Chances programme over the last twelve months.

The Voice 4 U Awards are aimed at looked after children, supported by Bolton's Children in Care Council and acknowledges and celebrates their achievements over the past year.

Whilst at the Town Hall, Andre and Chung-Yong signed autographs for the children and their families before taking their place on stage in front of 300 people to award six certificates to local children who have been working with BWCT in the last year and have developed as individuals via a range of activities, support and guidance.

Speaking following the event, Andre said: "This is my first community appearance out in the town of Bolton and the children that we met tonight were really inspirational and deserve to be acknowledged for all of their achievements and hard work.

"This evening Chungy and I came here with our hearts open and have learnt more about Bolton Wanderers Community Trust and their Positive Chances project and I think the work that they do with these children all year round to support and encourage them is fantastic and I feel very proud to be a part of it."

Ben Laycock, Head of Community Cohesion for BWCT, added: "Bolton Wanderers Community Trust has a long standing relationship with the looked after children in Bolton. This event is one of the highlights of the year and it is fantastic that we can get role models such as Chung Yong-Lee and Andre Moritz along to add to their memorable night."

BWCT's Positive Chances programme is a community based sport and education project that is delivered across Bolton and its surrounding boroughs and aims to create a good practice framework and support for looked after children and their families.

The Positive Chances project helps to tackle and combat the issues young people face in everyday life by providing them with positive chances in education and across a wide range of sports as well as being encouraged, supported and challenged to be the best that they can be.

The project, funded through the BIG Lottery Fund, is also directed towards educational engagement and achievement and a Study Support programme aims to increase academic attainment and link in to existing accredited national schemes such as The Duke of Edinburgh Award to ensure continued learning and a chance to gain qualifications to help towards their future prospects.

SOCCER SCHOOL HECTIC SCHEDULE

The festive period is renowned as one of the busiest times in the football calendar, but it isn't only the Wanderers first team that are facing a hectic schedule.

The International Soccer School heads into the second half of the season with two development camps organised in Australia and Colombia.

The trip down under to the International Soccer Academy in Sydney is the International Soccer School's third inside 12 months as two Bolton coaches will be taking sessions over a five day period.

The Academy first opened its doors in 2010 with only eight students enrolled but now a whopping 75 pupils are on the books from the ages of six to 18.

The youngsters thoroughly enjoy all the sessions taken on and we spend the necessary time putting the emphasis on having fun but still offering high quality coaching sessions.

The International Soccer School's work in Australia this month doesn't stop there however, as two teams will make the 24 hour flight to English shores this month to sample BWFC coaching sessions, take part in an exclusive tour of the Reebok Stadium and will also feature in our International Football Studies programme at Lostock.

COMMUNITY TRUST

WANDERERS VISIT HOME OF CRICKET

Over the busy festive period, football isn't the only sport catching the eyes of fans with the England cricket team currently in Australia competing for The Ashes.

Only five months ago, the Lions beat their Aussies counterparts at Lord's in the second Test on their way to a 3-0 series victory. The two nations are now back in battle once again down under, however not long after England's triumph at Lord's, Bolton Wanderers Community Trust made a special visit to what is dubbed as 'The Home of Cricket'.

The club's Community Trust, who recently won an award for their achievements at the North West Football Awards, took two cricket teams down to London to represent Bolton in the National Street20 finals day.

The two teams, who qualified to represent the town through winning the Bolton Street20 competition earlier this year competed against teams such as Newcastle, Portsmouth and London as they looked to be crowned National Champions.

Ahead of the tournament, each team took part in a training exercise organised by Cricket 4 Change before the competitive action got underway.

Bolton's first team which consisted of younger players came up against a strong Portsmouth outfit in matchday one and showed their dominance by emerging victorious over their south coast opponents.

Meanwhile, Bolton's second team faced a side from the opposite end of the country in Newcastle and matched the first team's effort by claiming victory in their first game.

Bolton's first team continued their impressive form and won their next two games, however the second team lost by one run to North London but fortunately still qualified for the semi-finals by winning their final group game.

Written in the stars, Bolton faced Bolton in the semi-finals with some great cricket played by both sides at Lord's, however the second team ended the first team's three match winning run to claim a place in the final against Newcastle.

The final began at a high tempo with both teams showing their intentions to claim the title but it was Bolton that came out victorious by knocking off the target set by Newcastle with one over remaining to win the competition for the second consecutive year.

Speaking after the event, Jordan Whittle from BWFC's Community Trust said: "I would like to thank the staff at Cricket 4 Change for putting on a great day for everybody involved.

"For the youngsters to say that they have played at Lord's is something very special and will stay with them all. It was a fantastic day for Bolton."

DONCASTER ROVERS

In four days time, Doncaster Rovers will be the next side from Yorkshire to make the short trip across the Pennines to take on Wanderers at the Reebok Stadium.

Donny won promotion to the Championship in dramatic fashion last season as they beat Brentford at Griffin Park on the final day, under the guidance of then manager Brian Flynn.

Six months later, and now managed by former Oldham boss Paul Dickov with Flynn now director of football at the Keepmoat, Doncaster have adjusted well to life in the Championship and are seven points above the drop zone ahead of tonight's league fixtures.

Having lost at home to Blackpool on the opening day of the new campaign, Rovers responded well by seeing off the challenge of Blackburn Rovers a fortnight later in their second game of the season.

Despite beating Gary Bowyer's men, it took until the end of September for the Championship new boys to register their next victory as they narrowly defeated Sheffield Wednesday at Hillsborough.

The month of October was also a difficult one for Rovers as they fell to heavy defeats against Reading and Middlesbrough respectively, as well as losing at home to in-form Burnley.

Last month also started in disappointing fashion for Donny supporters as Brighton and Hove Albion came away from the Keepmoat Stadium as 3-1 winners.

However, a draw away to Barnsley and a vital victory at home Yeovil Town have seen Dickov's men pick up as of late.

Doncaster's most notable victory of the season came at the weekend with a 2-1 triumph over Queens Park Rangers at the Keepmoat with full back Paul Quinn scoring the winner in the 89th minute.

Following his side's win over the R's, manager Dickov told the press he was proud of his team for the commitment they showed against Harry Redknapp's men.

"We let the fans down at Charlton and this performance was for them.

"I'm proud of the way we played considering the injury problems we have at present and that was a terrific display against probably the best team in the division.

"Tactically I thought we got it right and pressed them when we didn't have the ball.

"We were a bit aggrieved to go in behind at the interval. It was an uncharacteristic mistake by Ross Turnbull but I told him he didn't have to apologise because he's dug us out of the mire a number of times this season.

"It was a chance for the players to dig in for him and they did that. It was a massive effort from everyone."

MANBEHIND THEMIC

Philip Gittins
Wanderers Player commentator

"It's a harsh fact but typically goalkeepers only tend to attract headlines when they make an error, as invariably the ball tends to end up in the back of the net!"

In that respect perhaps the biggest compliment that can be paid to Andy Lonergan right now is that his performances, from a media perspective at least, are not attracting too much attention.

While, justifiably, in recent weeks much has been written and said about how the Whites backline has gelled impressively, the Prestonian shot-stopper's contribution to that should not be underestimated.

Since he took the gloves following Adam Bogdan's unfortunate training ground injury prior to the Ipswich Town game at the end of October, Wanderers have won three out of five with the 30 year-old forced to pick the ball out of the net on only three occasions in some seven and a half hours of football.

With over 250 league appearances to his name, our number 24 has gained a great deal of Championship experience, at his former clubs Preston and Leeds, and his ability to command his area and organise the defence in front of him has definitely been a huge contributory factor as Bolton have begun their climb up the table.

While Bogdan continues his recuperation, there are no two ways about it sometime in the not too distant future Dougie Freedman is going to have a massive selection dilemma on his hands as he will be forced to choose between two of the finest keepers in English football's second tier.

Until then I'm sure Lonergan will be more than happy to stay out of the headlines!

Get behind the team tonight and enjoy the game."
